DEMOCRATS SHY AT TARIFF REVISION AT PRESENT WITH MORATORIUM NOT POPULAR

(Copyright, 1931, NEA Service, Inc.) Washington, Dec. 1.—The Seventy-second congress, struggling with huge problems of finance and economics, will debate in bills.

Last year's treasury deficit was nearly a billion dollars. Two billions is the anticipated deficit for the present fiscal year. The tax increases by which congress will partly meet the deficit may themselves amount to a billion. Various proposals will be made for unemployed relief bond issues of from two to five billion dollars and there will be hot debates about the billions owed us in war debts. Assaults on the Hawley-Smoot tariff will point to billions lost in foreign trade. And there will be proposals designed to release billions in frozen assets.

Here is a thumb-nail forecast on the larger issues of this type:

Taxes—A heavy tax increase is sure. Hopes of both republican and democratic politicians that it might be averted have been dashed by the mounting deficit. The battle now will be between those who prefer to "soak the rich" and those who would distribute the added burden on all classes. The "rich" are sure to be the chief victims.

Debts—The Hoover one-year moratorium on German reparations and intergovernmental war debts will be approved, but any proposal by Hoover for an extension or a debt reduction to follow the anticipated reparations cut under the Young plan will precipitate a battle royal. Congress seems in no mood to stand for cancellation or anything that looks like it.

Tariff—The democrats must continue to shout against the present republican tariff law and will attempt to put through legislation which will lay the groundwork for tariff reform or else serve as an "educational campaign." The tariff is so intricately interwoven with the politics of so many individuals that attempts at revision are likely to precipitate a bad jumble. This thought frightens most members.

Banks—Banking problems will occupy much attention. The proposal likely to excite the most bitter opposition is that of the administration to "broaden the base" of Federal Reserve discount paper, which would change the original purpose of the reserve system.

There has been small mention of bills to cash soldier bonus certificates since President Hoover addressed the American Legion at Detroit and the Legion voted against such a plan. The Veterans for Foreign Wars will stand officially for immediate full cash payment, but the deficit's growth has made it apparent that this is the worst possible time for the veterans to make demands. Nevertheless, the cry for bonus cashing is almost sure to arise.

Rich to Pay More Increased taxes on the higher incomes, increased estate taxes and a gift tax to prevent escape from them as well as taxes on certain luxuries, now appear likely.

Many regular republicans and conservative democrats have joined with the progressives in decrying the increased concentration of wealth, declaring with Congressman Bacharach of New Jersey, member of the ways and means committee, that the very wealthy should bear the bulk of the increased burden.

Senator Borah of Idaho recently said 4 per cent of the people now owned 80 per cent of the wealth. Although that figure is often disputed it does appear that the richest 1 per cent of taxpayers had twice the percentage of reported income in 1929 that they had in 1921.

The present maximum tax on the very highest incomes and the largest estates is 20 per cent. There is a widespread disposition to boost the rates as high as 40 per cent. From administration quarters will come proposals to decrease the exemptions.

No one expects a general sales tax such as proposed by Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, but there will be a strong movement for certain luxury taxes. Perfumes, jewelry, cosmetics, playing cards, amusement devices and imported fancies, and perhaps new autos, are among the articles most likely to be taxed.

Postmaster General Brown's advocacy of a boost in the first-class postage rate from 2 to 2½ cents may receive considerable attention.

Tariff revision is proposed by Senator Joe Robinson, democratic floor leader, and others. Two former democratic tariff commissioners, Senator Costigan of Colorado and Representative Lewis of Maryland, urge repeal of the Hawley-Smoot tariff and a return to the Fordney-McCumber rates. Neither proposal could override a White House veto even if one of them happened to pass. So many democrats voted for the Hawley-Smoot bill as a whole and such a vast majority of them voted for specific rate increases on products of their own constituents that a reopening of the schedules at this session seems very unlikely.

Proposes Broader Credits Federal Reserve discounts now apply to notes, drafts and bills of exchange of maturity up to 90 days

NEW PARTY WITH WET PLANK KEYNOTE OF NEBRASKA MEET

SELECTION OF NAME AND GENERAL ORGANIZATION ONLY BUSINESS ON DOCKET

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 1.—(UP)—Hundreds of delegates today were to organize a new political party and urge the adoption of an anti-prohibition plank as part of its platform.

Alli Reed, once a follower of General Coxe, conceived the new party idea. Reed, who is from Sioux Falls, S. D., was said to have been financed by farmers in his state. These same farmers had poor crops this year because of drought.

The prohibition plank will demand the return of light wines and beer. It is sponsored by the farmer-labor party of Iowa, Roy L. Harrop, of Council Bluffs, the state chairman, said. Harrop's organization is also for money reform. They place their hopes in the new party.

Only business, the selection of a party name and general organization will take place at the meeting. Present plans call for the selection of presidential and other candidates at a meeting next spring.

Among the organizations represented at today's meeting were the Liberal party, the American party, and the Farmer-Labor parties of Colorado, Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota, the Dakotas and other states.

President of the National Farmer's Union, John Simpson, who is from Oklahoma, has been mentioned as possible presidential timber as has the half-sister of Col Charles A. Lindbergh, Mrs. Ava Augusta Lindbergh Christie. Mrs. Christie is editor of a paper at Red Lake Falls, Minn.

PROHIBITION POLL REVEALS 149 READY TO VOTE AMENDMENT

531 MEMBERS OF BOTH HOUSES QUERIED AS TO PROBABLE VOTE ON CHANGE

Detroit, Dec. 1.—(UP)—The latest poll of sentiment of congressmen regarding submission to the states of a proposal to repeal the 18th amendment, will be made public today when the executive committee of the women's organization for national prohibition reforms meets here.

The latest announced tabulations of replies from inquiries sent 531 members of both houses revealed that 149 said they would vote in favor of a resolution submitting an amendment proposal to the states. There were 73 noncommittal and 49 opposed to the proposal.

The question submitted by the organization was: "Will you vote to consider—and will you vote in favor of—a proposal under article 5 of the constitution of the United States for the repeal of the 18th amendment thereto, to be submitted to the conventions in the several states for ratification or rejection?"

PLEDGE CARDS GIVEN EMPLOYED IN CITY TO RELIEVE THOSE IDLE

Promise of a report tomorrow as to gains in the Brainerd Community Relief Fund Committee drive for funds to aid Brainerd unemployed this winter today was made by Henry I. Cohen chairman of workers canvassing the business district an outlying blocks.

An effort is being made to complete the drive by the close of this week. Practically all of the employed in downtown Brainerd have been provided with pledge cards. These will be collected this week. Every working person is urged to give one day's wage to the relief of needy families.

CORPORATIONS TO PAY FIVE MILLIONS IN DIVIDENDS SOON

BANK CORPORATIONS TO PAY LARGEST DIVIDENDS IN MINNESOTA

St. Paul, Dec. 1.—(UP)—Cash dividends totalling approximately $5,000,000 will be paid to stockholders by Minnesota corporations during the month of December.

Ranking in importance will be the dividends of the two banking holding corporations, the First Bank Stock Corporation and the Northwest Bank Corporation. Each of these groups is expected to declare dividends totalling about $750,000.

Dividends of the Great Northern Iron Ore properties, however, are expected to amount to $1,500,000 and are to be paid out on Dec. 28. Ore certificates are widely held throughout the state.

Other Minnesota corporations which will pay dividends during the month are Archer-Daniels-Midland Co., Tri-State Telephone and Telegraph Co., Munsingwear Corp., Pillsbury Flour Mills Co., St. Paul Union Stockyards Co., Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co.

A number of lesser corporations and banks are also expected to pay quarterly dividends.

CHAMP BREAD BAKER SAYS PROHIBITION IS A BAD LAW

Chicago, Dec. 1.—(UP)—Mary Teresa Rico, 20-year-old University of Minnesota freshman who was chosen champion bread baker at the International livestock show, today disclosed her reactions to current problems. She and other 4-H club members are attending the show.

She lives in Keewatin, Minn., a town of something over 2,000. She said she wouldn't live either in the country or a large city permanently.

"The farm is too isolated a place," she said.

Marriage: "No, I don't think so. I'd rather build a career doing 4-H club work among boys and girls."

College: "Yes. A college education prepares one for many things. If you fall at one thing, you can take up something else."

Depression: "The eastern capitalist ought to let loose some of the money so it could circulate in the rest of the country."

Prohibition: "It's a bad law. Drunkenness is bad, too. There ought to be a better way."

CLING TO HOPE LOST BOYS TOOK REFUGE WITH INDIANS AS SEARCHERS SCOUR CANON

Gallup, N. M., Dec. 1.—(UP)—Eugene Eracho and Charles Alonzo, 19-year-old school boys, were lost today in Nurtia Canon, with searchers hopeful they had taken refuge with a band of Indians known to be in the district.

The boys lost their way en route to the Charles H. Burke school early yesterday. They were dressed warmly.

Three searching parties were organized. One was led by Forest Ranger McGaffey. Another was composed of

CURTIS UPSETS MOVE FOR WET RUNNING MATE FOR HOOVER

MAIN THEME OF REPUBLICAN APPEAL WILL BE TO STAND ON ITS RECORD

Washington, Dec. 1.—(UP)—The movement to advance an eastern opponent as President Hoover's running mate next year apparently has been thwarted by the decision of Vice President Curtis to stand for renomination.

The announcement of Curtis that he would accept renomination is taken by republican leaders generally as insuring his selection by the national convention.

In that case republicans would go to the country with an all-dry ticket.

This would upset the plans of some eastern republicans, who have felt the party should make an appeal to the anti-prohibition states such as New York and New Jersey by nominating for vice president an outright enemy of prohibition such as Theodore Roosevelt, now governor of Porto Rico.

They favored this on the expectation that the democrats would name an anti-prohibitionist, who by combining the south with several big anti-prohibition states in the north might endanger republican success.

A Hoover-Curtis ticket would emphasize the administration's intention of standing on its own record.

The main theme of the republican appeal will be to stand by the Hoover administration on its effort to conquer depression, and not change horses midstream.

Renomination of Curtis would break a republican party precedent. It never has repented on vice presidential candidates. It also would run counter to the tradition with regard to age. Curtis would be 77 years old when he finished a second term. The custom has been to select a younger man, in line with the practice which favors a man in the fifties for president. In 1924 the republican national convention at Cleveland rejected President Coolidge's wish to have the late Senator Theodore E. Burton of Ohio as his vice presidential teammate, because he was then 73 years old.

COUNCIL OMITS JAP RESERVATION IN NEW EVACUATION PLAN

APPROVAL OF PLAN FOR EVACUATION OF MANCHURIA BY JAPAN VOTED BY COUNCIL

Paris, Dec. 1.—(UP)—The League of Nations' resolution providing for Japanese evacuation in Manchuria and appointment of a commission of inquiry was approved by the council of 12 today.

The 12 nations represent all members of the council except China and Japan.

The latest draft omits the clause asked by the Japanese permitting use of Japanese troops outside the treaty zone to suppress bandits.

The council approved the presidential declaration of Aristide Briand, interpreting and specifying the Japanese rights in Manchuria.

The League will seek the approval of China and Japan of the resolution prior to submitting it to a public session of the full council.

Only one thing was expected to cause objection to the resolution. The United Press was informed that the resolution completely excludes Japan's precautionary reservation providing that, although her troops will be withdrawn within the treaty zone of Manchuria, they might be used outside of the zone if necessary to suppress bandits.

Members of the council objected to including the bandit clause on three grounds:

- 1. It is contrary to international law.
- 2. It sets a bad precedent.
- 3. South American members oppose the principle of allowing one nation the privilege of military invasion on the pretext of chasing bandits.

City Jail Popular Home to Idle Transients

It's a case of first come, first served at the city jail these nights. The colder weather has brought more than the customary number of unemployed transients who no longer sleep out of doors but come for shelter at the city lockup. The so-called "tramp room" is provided for this purpose. However, the large cell room has only eight bunks. When these are occupied other "guests" must content themselves with sleeping on the floor.

The night visitors, however, could sleep in the single cells but for these there is a shortage in mattresses, Chief Templeton said. The largest group of night guests at one time given room at the city jail was 30. An average of between 10 and 15 are given shelter each night at the jail, Templeton said.

GANDHI SEES BREAK IN RELATIONS WITH BRITISH REGIME

IN CLOSING SPEECH OF ROUND TABLE MEET HE PLEADS FOR COMPLETE INDEPENDENCE

London, Dec. 1.—(UP)—The Mahatma M. K. Gandhi, leader of India's millions in their struggle for independence, said today he has not yet decided whether there shall be "peace or war" in India.

He paid the closest attention to the statement of the government's India policy at the final meeting of the round table conference read by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald. After Gandhi jokingly complimented the prime minister on his industry, saying, "You have worked us almost to exhaustion," he added seriously: "If, as it seems somewhat likely, we have come to the parting of the ways, nevertheless you deserve my sincere vote of thanks."

MacDonald's statement revealed no important changes in his government policy and left the settlement of the important minorities of communal questions to the Indians themselves.

MacDonald's statement said that so much work remained to be done on the government's plan that three small committees would be appointed early in the new year to work in India filling in details of the scheme. After that, he indicated, it would be necessary for the round table conference to meet again and reconsider the entire question.

MacDonald appealed to the Indians to go home and settle the communal questions between themselves. If they failed, he said, the government would be forced to impose a provisional settlement, "for we are determined not to allow this to impede our progress."

Gandhi, in a speech at the session, asked for complete Indian independence.

"You may call it whatever you will, but I want complete independence," Gandhi began solemnly. "I will strain every nerve to secure an honorable settlement without exposing India's millions to the ordeal of civil disobedience, but if it must be faced, we will do it joyfully."

THIRD KILLED WHEN GUN FIRES AS YOUTH RE-ENACTS TRAGEDY

MURDER AND SUICIDE CAUSING DEATHS OF THREE IS CULMINATION OF ROMANCE

Chicago, Dec. 1.—(UP)—A high school love affair that culminated in murder and suicide today had brought death to two girls and a youth.

The accidental killing of Constance Trohats 15, by Joseph T. Wilson, 16, ended a day of tragedy for Roosevelt high school students.

The Trohats girl was shot by Wilson as the pair were reenacting with a supposedly empty revolver the earlier deaths of their fellow students, Ruth Wicklund, 12, and Henry Sio, 16.

Constance and her sister were discussing with Wilson the fatal shooting of the Wicklund girl after which Sio committed suicide.

"I'm glad I didn't go to school today," Constance said. "Henry might have shot me."

"Sure," said Wilson, who was a military student for a time and has a good record, "he might have killed you."

The boy took out a revolver.

"This gun is empty," he said, disclosing a wooden bullet in the magazine. "Henry might have taken his gun like this and shot you."

The youth pressed the revolver against the girl's head and pulled the trigger three times. Twice the hammer clicked harmlessly, then a shell was exploded and Constance fell to the floor, dead.

SNELL'S SELECTION FOR SPEAKER POST PRECIPITATES FIGHT

NOMINEE WORKING ON THEORY THAT FLOOR LEADERSHIP GOES TO DEFEATED CANDIDATE

Washington, Dec. 1.—(UP)—House republicans today bore out the tradition that the minority in congress usually engages in the most internecine strife. Split wide open on the question of who shall lead them from now until the national conventions next summer, the republicans appeared unlikely to adjust their differences before the 72nd congress opens next Monday.

Tolson Clings to Post

Nomination yesterday of Bertrand H. Snell of New York as their candidate for speaker only precipitated the fight. The real question is, who will be floor leader? Republicans know full well that barring the unexpected, democrats will organize the house and elect John N. Garner of Texas speaker. Thus the seven-ballot fight between Snell and John Q. Tilson of Connecticut actually was a preliminary skirmish seeking advantage in the struggle for the floor leadership.

Snell fought hard for the nomination on the theory that the floor leadership automatically goes to the defeated candidate for speaker. Snell expects to be that defeated candidate. Tilson, on the other hand, insists that he already is floor leader because he was elected last spring to that post, in which he has served six years. It would be an empty honor for Snell to stand for speaker with advance certainty of defeat, unless the next best job were in reserve.

This modern version of the imperial conflict between Brutus and Marc Anthony after the death of Caesar will be decided next week after the house organizes.

Must Agree on Rules Change

To hold in line the progressive faction, the old leaders must agree to liberalize the rigid rules of house procedure. Up to this year they have been able to ignore the progressive clamor. They can ignore it no longer, and Snell, one of the old Longworth-Tilson-Snell triumvirate, chairman of the rules committee and guardian of the safety valve, has drawn up a set of less rigid rules. These are calculated to ease the gag, permit action on bills heretofore strangled in committee, and diminish the filibuster menace.

In order to enact the changes, the democrats, or part of them, must agree. So far they have not committed themselves as a party. This now is the only immediate source of possible trouble for them. Garner is opposed as candidate for the speakership, and withdrawal of Charles R. Crips of Georgia from the floor leadership race assures election of Henry T. Rainey of Illinois. Rainey's only opponent is John J. O'Connor of New York.

COMPARE LETTERS OF PRISONER TO WIFE, SWEETHEART

STRANGE LOVE TRIANGLE ENVELOPS STRICKEN GIRL

Minneapolis, L. I., Dec. 1.—(UP)—A convict's love letters to his wife and the girl he wronged, enclosed in the same envelope, and read by both, were revealed today in the strange triangle of May Gledhill, Canadian beauty, William A. Conner and Mrs. Conner.

And when these letters arrived at the Floral Park home where Miss Gledhill, 26, a descendant of Sir Robert Peel, lives with Mrs. Conner, they were read by both in amity.

Mrs. Conner revealed this strange correspondence and displayed two of the notes written by her husband from his cell in Vermont penitentiary. The one to her read:

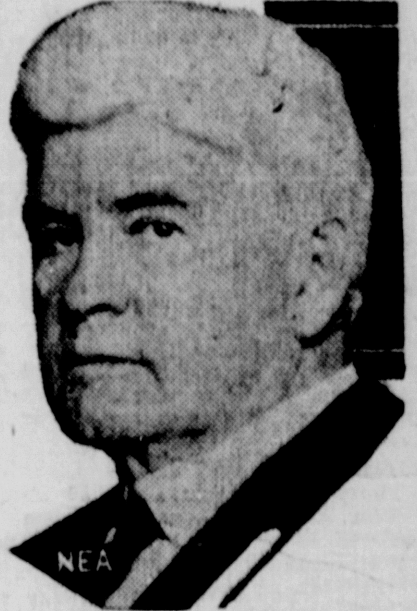

"My Dear Wife: I am looking forward to the time I get out of here when you and I may start life anew. I know that I have caused you such grief and misery but you must know that I regret it all. I know that you understand me and the world and that you will find it in your big forgiving heart to forgive me."

The letter to Miss Gledhill said:

"My Darling May: I am counting the days when I will be with you again. Separation from you is maddening. I love you with heart and soul and I know you love me. Be brave, be patient, and soon we will be together again with our love."

The bizarre case became public after Miss Gledhill was taken to a hospital Saturday night, following a collapse. Her condition today was reported slightly improved. Diagnosis of her illness, while not complete, has shown there is no poison in her system.

Floor Leader?

HENRY T. RAINEY

Representative from Illinois, appears virtually assured of the Democratic floor leadership of the House in the forthcoming session of Congress. He is said to have the majority support in both the northern and southern states.

FREIGHT RATE HIKE BASED ON NEW SCALE GRANTED BY BOARD

LARGEST INCREASE IN NORTH-WESTERN MINNESOTA AND NORTH DAKOTA PORTS

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 1.—(UP)—Increases in freight rates to conform partly with the new tariff schedule set by the Interstate Commerce commission were granted today by the State Railroad and Warehouse commission.

They include an increase of about 12 per cent on flaxseed; an increase of 10 to 20 per cent on wheat; an increase of 5½ cents per hundredweight on all grain hauls of from five to 10 miles and an increase of 10 cents per hundredweight on all grain hauls of 10 to 70 miles.

The Interstate Commerce commission's rate will apply on all hauls of over 70 miles, the state commission ruled.

The rate on wheat in some cases will be lower. The largest is in northwestern Minnesota and to points in North Dakota.

DAYTON'S ROBBED OF $2,000 IN HOLDUP

BANDIT BELIEVED TO HAVE STARTED STORE FIRE TO DIVERT ATTENTION

Minneapolis, Dec. 1.—(UP)—While a crowd of shoppers gathered around a fire in an elevator shaft, a lone bandit held up a cashier in Dayton's department store, one of the city's largest shops, today and escaped with $2,000.

More than $20,000 was overlooked by the bandit. The holdup occurred about 2:15 p. m. when thousands of shoppers were in the store. As firemen battled the flames, which attracted shoppers' attention, the bandit appeared before the cage of L. W. Anderson, cashier.

"Hand over all that dough," the bandit demanded as he pushed a revolver against the grating.

While two assistants held up their hands, Anderson gave the bandit all the bills on top of the counter. The bandit demanded more but fled when Anderson told him that was all there was.

Police said they believed the bandit had set the fire to distract attention from the robbery. He was described as apparently a dope fiend.

COBB COVERS PUBLIC ECONOMY IN TALK TO ROTARIANS ON WORLD CONDITIONS

International affairs relating to world wide preparedness, the world war debt, were explained by W. C. Cobb, Brainerd superintendent of schools in an address to the Rotary club at noon today.

Cobb used this illustrations to show that the United States could not remain aloof to world affairs, that the country was a elading nation in world commerce and that it should take the initiative to iron out the present problems.

The speaker stressed the point that the five leading powers, the United States, England, France, Germany and Russia, could easily say "We will have a limited armament" and dictate to the remaining countries of the world to follow in their footsteps.

"We must eliminate prejudices between peoples of the nations. We must create a better understanding among the nations of the world. War is futile. This country is paying 75 cents on every dollar to pay for past wars and preparedness for future wars, the remaining 25 cents in national taxes being used for the maintenance of government," he said.

Cobb presented figures of the cost of armament showing that with each dreadnaught built approximately fifty million dollars are deprived the country for other phases of government and education.

The speaker took the stand that many taxpayers are unjustly criticizing President Hoover because of the present conditions and tax situation.

"This class of people is unfair to our chief executive since he does not dictate the policies of the nation in the present form of government. Should any criticism come it should be directed to congress," Cobb concluded.

Milwaukee, Wis.—Mrs. Phyllis Banasynski, 26, evidently experiences considerable difficulty in making up her mind. After having started six divorce actions against her husband, Theodore, 26, and dropping them in favor of reconciliation, she has started her seventh action against him because, she charges, he has called her vile names since their last reconciliation. They have two children.

An Air Raid

Pittsburgh—Mr. and Mrs. Mike Damm were enjoying an evening siesta on the basement of their home. Their peaceful rest was rudely interrupted by the sight of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Meklas, neighbors, charging upon them from an adjoining roof. Meklas was brandishing a chisel and hammer and his wife a plank. The Dammers were beaten and injured and have sued for $20,000.

Denver, Colo.—They are thinking of some other name to call trusty prisoners of the state penitentiary working in the canning factory. Discovery that the "trusties" were distilling whisky in the factory was made by prison officials. The "distill" was found to belong to Lyle Hastings, Wayne Ball, Jack Rose and Jim Snyder, who were immediately removed from the "trusty" standing.

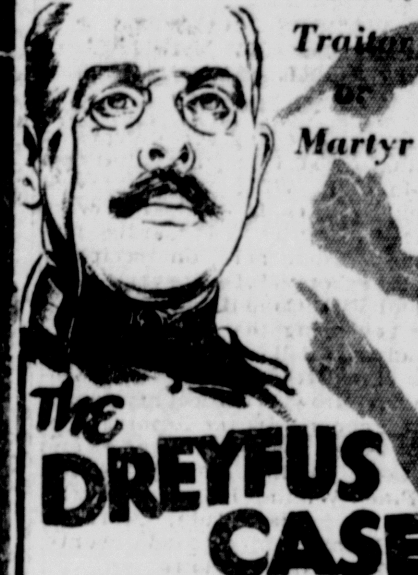

Hot Stuff

Seattle, Wash.—Police, two of them, overheard a telephone conversation in a downtown hotel. The gentleman calling was ordering a "quart" sent up to his room. Both police lined up outside the room of the caller and, when the messenger came with the package, they demanded a look at it, thinking it was liquor. It turned out to be hot stuff, all right. It was chili con carne.

WHAT LIQUOR DOES

General Nelson A. Miles, who was an honored Baptist, uttered at a convention in Atlantic City, a little while before he passed away, the following words:

"The colossal devastation, spoilage and sacrifice that now shocks the civilized world with inexpressible horror are enacted in the open day, amid the thunder of artillery and the roar of cannonading. But there is another demon of destruction more silent, more subtle, and yet equally deadly. The demon of liquor corrupts governments, impoverishes communities, desolates homes, destroys character, degrades and degenerates a race, enslaves and starves helpless women and children. It replaces prosperity and happiness with sorrow, crime and desolation. In its stealthiness and constant iniquities it desolates more countries and homes than the destructive engines of war now engaged on the continent of Europe."

Forton A. Christoffer, Minneapolis, chapter president, is in charge of the initiation of 22 new members to be held at 6 p. m. A dinner will be served afterward.

Help! Police!

Denver, Colo. — "H-m-m, looks like my car," mused Patrolman James C. Van Horn as an automobile passed him. "By golly, it is!" he gasped excitedly a moment later as he saw the license number. Commandeering a passing auto, he started in pursuit. He forced his own car over to the curb and two 13-year-old boys slowly crawled out. They admitted taking the car from in front of Van Horn's home. Detention home authorities took them in charge.

PRAYER

Prayer pulls the rope below, and the great bell rings above in the ears of God. Some scarcely stir the bell, for they pray so languidly; others give but an occasional pluck at the rope; but he who wins with heaven is the man who grasps the rope boldly and pulls continuously with all his might.

RESTRICTIONS ARE ORDERED AFFECTING LAKES IN DISTRICT

TWO WATERS BANNED ENTIRELY TO ANY MANNER WINTER FISHING

Restrictions covering three angles of the taking of fish in certain lakes this winter in Crow Wing county as well as other counties in the state were announced today by A. P. Caydie, deputy game warden, here, on receipt of information from W. D. Stewart, State Game and Fish Commissioner.

Rules governing the following lakes in this district follow:

Lakes closed to any manner of winter fishing: Crow Wing county, north one half Pelican, stream forming connecting water between Upper and Lower Long; Aitkin county, Apple, Little Pine, Wilkin, Hanging Kettle, Cass county, Ada, Mule; Morrison county, Shambeau; Todd county, Beauty, Mountain, Charlotte.

Lakes closed to the use of fish houses and spearing through the ice, but angling permitted: Crow Wing county, Barber, Bertha, Crooked (T. 42 N. R. 28 W.), Cross, Upper Hay, Edward, Lower Hay, Sand Bar (Big Horseshoe), Holt, Island, Kenny, Long (near Merrifield), Long (T. 45 N. R. 28 W.), Rush, Smith, Big Trout, Long Lake North, except the west end, near Highway 19, all the waters of Daggett Brook between Eagle Lake and Cross Lake including Pine Lake and Daggett Lake, Pine River between where it leaves Whitefish Lake and enters Cross Lake; Cass county, Woman Lake, Girl Lake and connecting waters; Cass and Itasca counties, Winnibigoshish; Mille Lacs county, Shakopee, including Rum river to Onamia Lake; Todd county, Big, Pine Island and the north one half of Big Birch Lake in Stearns and Todd counties; Wadena county, Rush, Twin, Spirit.

Lakes closed to angling, but use of fish houses permitted for the spearing of whitefish, tullibees, suckers, pickerel, redhorse, bullheads, carp and eel-out: Crow Wing county, Bay, Borden, Edna, Maple, Mayo, Sibley, Upper Whitefish, Lower Whitefish, Turtle; Aitkin county, Elm Island, Esquagama, Farm Island, Horseshoe, Minnewawa, Big Pine (T. 45 N. R. 27 W.), Speen (T. 46 N. R. 26 W.), Whidmore; Aitkin and Crow Wing counties, Cedar; Aitkin and Pine counties, Pine, T. 43, R. 22 and 21; Cass county, Norway; Todd and Stearns counties, Big Sauk.

GAS TAXES SHOW NO DEPRESSION EFFECT

COLLECTIONS TO NOV. 1 ARE 8.7 PER CENT OVER 1930—TRAFFIC SHOWS ROAD NEEDS

Minnesota is enjoying a year of prosperity, if the amount of gasoline used is any index. Gas taxes collected from Jan. 1 to Oct. 31 totalled $8,822,835, compared to $8,119,638 in the same months in 1930, an increase of 8.7 per cent. The figures are the net collections after deducting refunds for gasoline used for agricultural and industrial purposes. Two thirds of the gas tax goes to the trunk highway fund and one third to the state aid fund, for distribution to the counties.

Motor vehicle taxes, however, show a slight decrease. Up to Oct. 31, 735,469 vehicles had been registered, compared to 739,573 at the same date in 1930. The decrease is only 4 of one per cent, but it is the first time since annual registration commenced, that a decrease has been recorded. Due to the drop in prices, the average tax has dropped from $14.78 in 1930 to $14.53 in 1931. Taxes collected for the ten month period totalled $10,686,840 in 1931 and $10,931,720 in 1930, a decrease of 2.2 per cent. The increase in gas taxes more than offset the drop in auto taxes, so that trunk highway fund receipts from the two sources were $223,985 greater than in the same months in 1930.

If one were to draw any conclusions from these figures, it would probably be that there is as much business and recreational activity in Minnesota as ever. Due to business uncertainty many people are putting off buying new cars, but they are making more use of the old cars than ever before. The gas consumption figures are in line with the traffic counts taken by the Minnesota Highway department, which show more vehicles using the highways this year than ever before.

"There will probably be a very rapid increase in motor vehicle registration and highway traffic when business conditions return to normal," Commissioner C. M. Babcock predicts. "If there had been any curtailment of highway construction during the so-called depression, we would soon find our highways grossly inadequate for the increased traffic we are likely to have. Fortunately the gas tax increases in proportion to the traffic, and in addition to this the bond issue has enabled us to do a lot of much needed work, taking advantage of prevailing low prices on materials and getting more work per dollar than ever before. At the same time it has given employment to thousands of people who needed work."

PRAYER

Prayer without faith is vain. A pious English writer, one who lived as far back as the days of the Puritans and who uses various homely but instructive illustrations after the manner of those times, calls prayer the bucket of the soul, by which it draws water out of the wells of salvation. But without faith you may let down this bucket again and again and never bring up one drop of solid comfort. It is faith which fills the bucket. And, accordingly, if our faith be weak, we shall find but poor and diminishing return. A full bucket depends on the condition of a strong faith.

MRS. ERNEST BUTLER SECURES $51 IN RED CROSS CALL TO LEAD

MRS. WILLIAM TURCOTTE, CLOSE SECOND; $800 SUBSCRIBED HERE

Mrs. Ernest Butler, Ransford hotel, led all workers in the Red Cross roll call, having secured $51 in membership, a report made by I. L. Peterson, county chairman of the roll call, announced today.

The roll call is virtually completed in this city. Brainerd has subscribed approximately $800, the equivalent of last year.

The county's goal is $1400 in memberships, being $1 an annual membership.

Second high in the number of memberships gained in Brainerd went to Mrs. William Turcotte who turned in $50.

A detailed report for the city will be provided in a few days.

Attempt to Boom Wine in Schools

Paris — Although school books used in French schools are emphatic in their branding of alcohol as an evil, the Minister of Education has issued instructions that pupils be taught the benefits of wine drinking. This is being done, it is said, in an effort to boost the grape and wine industry of the country, which has fallen off in late years.

The championing of wine in schools is being done by pointing out to pupils that if they cultivate a taste for wine they will not be apt to fall victims to whisky, gin, and other "foreign" drinks later on in life. The health value of wine is being stressed.

Just as we Thought

Milwaukee—Reducing methods, pills, exercises and belts are the bunk, according to Prof. Susan B. West, director of home economics of the Milwaukee-Downer college. It's in the person himself whether or not he is to be fat, Prof. West opines. She maintains that fat is due to a healthy appetite, and not to glandular action, and that the amount of food consumed must be reduced to reduce the waistline.

ILLNESS MAY HALT ATHLETIC CAREER OF BOOTH FOREVER

YALE STAR HEADED FOR A SANATORIUM WITH INFECTION OF LUNG COVER

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 1.—(U.P.)—Albie Booth, undersized New Haven youngster who became one of football's glamorous characters, is headed for a sanatorium his athletic career halted, perhaps forever.

Yale medical authorities who have been treating him for pleurisy in the isolation ward of New Haven hospital admitted today that his ailment is an infection of the lung cover.

Doctors say this results in a serious lung disease in a large portion of cases.

Albie will be transferred shortly to the Gaylord Farms sanatorium at Wallingford.

Yale authorities issued the following statement last night:

"The health department of Yale university, realizing the general interest in the condition of Albert J. Booth, Jr., with his consent wishes to make it known that Booth developed pleurisy with effusion on November 25. It seems wise to treat him conservatively and within a short time he will go to the Gaylord Farms sanatorium in Wallingford, Conn., for a period of rest. There is no evidence of any trouble with his lungs."

SEA EXHIBIT REFLECTS OCEAN

Paris.—(U.P.)—With the opening of the Salon Nautique, in the Grand Palais, beacon lights and deep sea signals flashed, chains clanked, the outlines of hulls, sails and rigging met the eyes, the smell of tar filled the air and the human senses were so hypnotized by the perfection of the scene that the swish of the ocean and spray from the waves seemed present through some trick of the imagination.

This year the chief features of the exhibition comprise everything that concerns navigation—shipyards, arsenals, schools, crews; navigation companies, lighthouse, buoying services, fishing; navigation instruments, sea glasses, marine charts, sails, ropes, rigging, motors, small boats of every kind, meteorology, tourism, maritime literature and fine arts.

Machinery and motors filled a large section of the exposition, for a nautical salon must reflect marine evolution, and the sea is haunted with ideas of speed, as are the roadways and the air. New experiments in the lighting of the hull have resulted in improved conditions and a greater beauty of form.

Among 600 exhibitors, 200 devoted themselves to the glory of wind-driven vessels.

Mrs. Clifford Olson, Mrs. and Mrs. Harry Voss, Mrs. Voss being the former Miss Mabel Lee.

At the regular meeting Tuesday night of the Deerwood I. O. O. F. Wm. Sweeney was elected Noble Grand; Douglas Archibald Vice Grand; Oscar Nelson, recording secretary; Myron Hilyar, treasurer; and Antone Moe, trustee for 18 months.

The Whist tournament is progressing nicely.

GIBSON, RETURNED AS MANAGER OF BUCS, HOLDS PENNANT HOPES OF PITTSBURGH

Pittsburgh, Dec. 1.—(U.P.)—A rugged Canadian farmer has come to Pittsburgh to attempt his managerial comeback and therein lie the 1932 pennant hopes of the Pittsburgh National league baseball club.

George Gibson, star catcher of the 1909 world champion Pirates and manager of the club from 1920 to 1922, has been appointed manager to succeed Jewel Ens, who guided the Pittsburgh club since the latter part of the 1930 season.

Gibson, a sturdy, heavy set athlete, who has lived in retirement for five years on his 130-acre fruit farm at Mount Brydges, near London, Ont., plans no radical changes in the Pirate roster but intimates there will be "some new faces on the roster next season."

Practical, straightforward and conservative as well as a devotee of the older style of play in which base running and sacrifices rather than free and easy hitting dominated, Gibson is expected to bring the Pirates out of the slump of the past few seasons.

Gibson, who was born in London, in 1880, played with Knox club in London in 1902 and the following year played with the Buffalo club of the old Eastern league. Late in 1904 he transferred to the Montreal club where he stayed until June, 1905.

State Action Would Boom Aviation

New York.—Individual ownership of airplanes rests on the establishment of state airways to supplant the system created by the federal government, according to Charles L. Lawrence, president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce.

"Little has been done thus far by the states as a group to encourage the development of aviation, even for their own advantage," he states.

"Private flying is dependent upon the development of interstate airways and the creation of landing facilities in small communities. Lack of these things is one great reason why there are not more privately-owned airplanes in this country today.

"It should be borne in mind that the automobile would never have achieved its present position in our social and business life, nor have become the rich revenue producer that it is to the states, had it not been for the development of good roads, interstate and intrastate."

6,500 Miles For Love—Then Jail

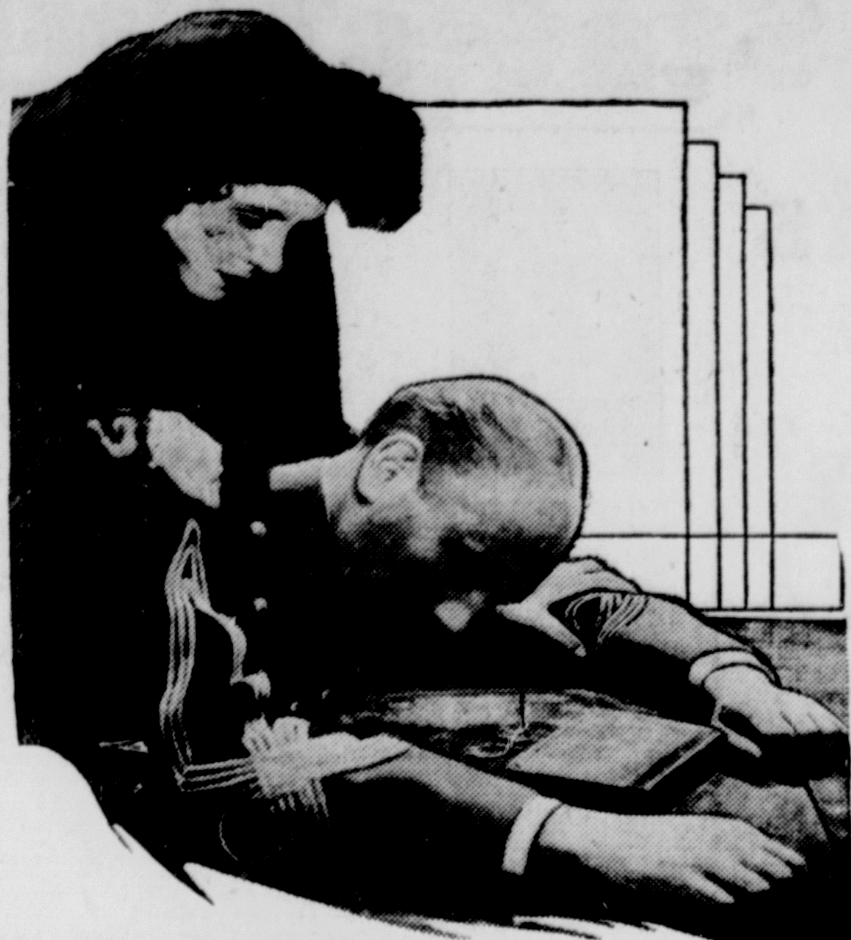

Ev-rett, Wash. — All the way from Wales, Charles Cotter came to see Mrs. Lil Burt because he loved her. But when he got here she broke his heart and had him put in jail, he says.

Cotter fell in love with Mrs. Burt two and a half years ago. Mrs. Burt's husband became suspicious and, as Cotter was in the U. S. illegally, had him deported.

Cotter explains that after he had returned to Wales, his home, Mrs. Burt wrote and asked him to come back. He stowed away on a Norwegian steamer and after about four months reached here. Mrs. Burt hid him from her husband for a time, and then told him he'd have to leave. In an argument, Mrs. Burt ran into a knife Cotter was holding. She had him arrested.

"I love that woman and I couldn't help coming back," Cotter dejectedly says.

Daring Orchid Hunt

London.—Capt. F. W. Burdett is probably the most adventuresome orchid hunter in the world, and has missed death by a hair's breadth many times in search of rare blooms. He has combed the Philippine Islands in search of prize orchids and some of the best ones he has found in tree tops, 250 feet above ground. In climbing these trees he has encountered blood-sucking leeches, ants, wild bees and ferocious sand flies. Snakes in the jungles, not to mention wild animals, have made his trips exciting.

HIGHER TAXES FOR RICH IS CONGRESS' CRY AS TREASURY DEFICIT MOUNTS

which have been drawn or used for production, purchasing or marketing of goods. The theory is to enable commercial banks to get credit for seasonal or emergency needs. Now it is proposed to "broaden the base" and release frozen assets of the banks by making real estate mortgages, railroad and other securities eligible for discount. Senator Carter Glass and others will fight against letting in any of this "speculative" or "investment" paper, protesting against draining Federal Reserve money to finance Wall street speculation.

Couldn't Scare Him

Charlottesville, Pa.—Five youths donned skin-tight black clothes, painted bones on them with phosphorescent material, and set out to scare couples parked along the highway. They approached one motorist who was changing a tire. "Boo!" the youths yelled. "Scram!" shouted the motorist. With that he struck one of the "skeletons" over the head with a tire iron. The motorist turned out to be Constable Joseph Judson.

Vitamin Pills

New York—Here is good news both for children who dislike spinach and carrots, and for parents who don't like to compel their children to eat them. The vitamin-producing material contained in spinach and carrots, known as carotene, may soon be supplied in the form of powder or pills, according to the American Chemical Society. A new process has been devised whereby this substance can be produced in a highly concentrated crystalline form at low cost.

So Thoughtless

She: Every night before I go to bed I write down my thoughts in a little book which I have had for over a year. He: You must have nearly a page full by now. — Sondagisne Strix, Stockholm.

Why Mr. Douglas?

London — Portly matrons and other women who shower upon their stubby dogs all sorts of kisses and love pots, destroy the dog's self-respect and spoil him. James Douglas, famous English publicist says. "A dog ought to be allowed to be a dog and keep his self-respect." Douglas opines. "He should not be converted into the semblance of a spoiled child. He should not be killed by kindness. There ought to be a Society for the Prevention of Over-Kindness to Animals."

Lucky for Jimmy

Milwaukee — Jimmy Anderson's mother is keeping her eyes on Master James now. Recently the child, not old enough to walk, crawled out of the house and on to the street car tracks. He was peacefully meandering between the rails when a car swept around a curve and passed over him. The axles and motors, however, were high enough to miss him and he suffered nothing more than fright and a few tears.

Hungary Air Treaties

Budapest—Through a series of treaties arranged with foreign countries, Hungary has now become the hub of air service with foreign countries. The treaties allow Austria, Germany, France, England and Holland the right to operate air lines in Hungary. There are no air lines operated by Hungary and another country jointly.

Just Speak to It

London — A radio receiving set on display at the recent Wireless Exhibition needs only to be told to bring in a certain station and it does so automatically. The set has a small microphone inside which is tuned to certain consonants of speech. The various sounds will bring in various stations automatically.

Drinks Shampoo

Knoxville, Tenn.—Friends of James Thorp, aren't springing any jokes about people drinking their hair tonic while he is around. It seems that Thorp had to have some throat burns treated at the hospital, because his wife accidentally gave him a teaspoonful of coconut oil shampoo instead of cod liver oil.

Postman Walked 100,000 Miles

Springfield, Ill.—(U.P.)—Richard Taylor, local mail carrier, has retired from the service after having hiked 100,000 miles delivering mail in Springfield. Taylor was retired in a pension recently, he having served 30 years as a mail carrier. He delivered mail to the executive mansion here for the last 25 years.

Cheap as Rail

Berlin — The German citizen's patronage of German air lines has enabled air transport companies of this country to cut air passenger fares to compare with railroad rates. It is shown that it is now possible to travel in the air at rates equivalent to third-class railway fare for the same distance covered.

Need New Shoes

Turlock, Calif.—Ed Schneider, proprietor of a shoe store here, tells of the clever way in which a supposed customer recently stole a pair of shoes. He had them tied on and asked to be allowed to walk up and down the aisle to test their fit. In his walk he leisurely left the store without paying for the shoes.

Ready for Show

Detroit—The National Aircraft Show of 1932 will again be held in Detroit. Date of the show is set from April 2 to 10 inclusive. Manufacturers from all parts of the country will display their wares at the exhibit. This is the second year the show has been scheduled for Detroit.

No More Dirigibles

London—Drastic economy measures have caused England to abandon all hopes of constructing more dirigibles and to announce that the R-100, its largest, will be disposed of in the interests of economy. This is the ship which made the successful flight to Canada and back.

A Lot of Pull

Montreal — The Canadian Pacific Railway's newest super-locomotive has lot of pull. In a recent test this new type of engine pulled a train a mile and a third long. The locomotive is about 100 feet long, weighs 400 tons, and is said to be the most powerful in the world. It is built for service over the Canadian Rockies.

Test is Easier

Washington—It is easier to become a licensed air pilot now as a result of the recent Department of Commerce announcement that it has reduced the vision requirements for student pilots and private fliers. Although this ruling will not affect commercial pilots, it will allow private pilots to make use of glasses to correct faulty vision and wear them while piloting planes.

Stuck Up

Seattle—Women neighbors of Alexander Mims wondered at his lack of manners. They passed him on the street and he failed to raise his hat in greeting. But this explains Mims' actions. He is near-sighted, and by mistake took a bottle of glue out of a cabinet in place of hair tonic. He put on his hat and it took him more than 15 minutes to cut it off after he had discovered his mistake. He had to have his head shaved.

Observant Child

A little girl whose parents were not great readers visited friends. She gazed long and earnestly at the well-filled book shelves, and then amazed them by exclaiming: "We get books from the library, too, but we take our back." — Tit-Bits.

FROM DISEASE

While Christmas Seals sales in Brainerd and Crow Wing county went ahead today, Dr. E. G. Hubin, superintendent of the Deerwood Sanatorium, presented the following paper for publication describing "Why Tuberculosis is Still With Us," to aid as an impetus to the sale.

Dr. Hubin wrote as follows: In spite of the fact that tuberculosis is a preventable disease, it is still taking its yearly toll of thousands of lives, and these mainly from the second, third, and fourth decades of life—the years that should, by all odds, be the happiest. Why is that?

In the memory of the older physicians, typhoid fever, small pox and diphtheria were yearly taking a large number of lives all over the country. Now these same diseases are practically under control, and in fact the first two are now so scarce that many medical students pass through their years of training without seeing a single case. What has occurred to produce the change? Two things mainly. First, we have learned to immunize a large part of the population against these diseases and so remove the combustible material on which the contagion subsists. And in the second place we have come to realize the value of isolation and quarantine in preventing the spread of these diseases to susceptible persons.

While there is as yet no satisfactory vaccine for immunization against tuberculosis (the European B. C. G. vaccine is still in the experimental stage), we can however accomplish much by the second factor which was found so effective against the other diseases mentioned.

It is a fact almost without exception that each case of pulmonary tuberculosis of the human type comes from some other case of tuberculosis. In other words, the disease spreads from person to person, either directly or indirectly. The sputum of most cases of active tubercle bacilli, the germs which cause tuberculosis. When such a person coughs or sneezes, these germs are sprayed into the air and remain suspended there in tiny droplets of sputum for some time. Anyone coming into the immediate neighborhood of such a person is directly exposed to the disease when he inhales these droplets with the air. The only way this contamination of the air can be prevented by the patient is by carefully covering mouth and nose when coughing, with a napkin. Dishes and towels also become contaminated and unless disinfected properly before use by another, also serve as means in spreading the disease.

From this it is evident that every open case of tuberculosis should be isolated, and this can best be done in a sanatorium for the tuberculosis. Here everything is done to reduce the danger of spreading the disease to others. A mother in the home, who has an open case of tuberculosis of the lungs is almost certain to give the disease to her small children. Many of these infected children do not break down however until in the later teens or early twenties. This gives us the so called tuberculosis families. It is a matter of direct infection from an open case rather than an inheritance of the disease from parent to child.

What then can we do to hasten the day when so large a number of young persons will no longer fall victims to this dread disease? Several things.

1. Get all known cases of open tuberculosis into sanatoria. This also gives them the best chance for recovery.

2. All persons having an unexplained cough or cold which persists for a long time—say six weeks or more—should have a thorough examination by a qualified doctor. A sputum test should be done if there is expectoration, and an x-ray examination may also be necessary to rule out tuberculosis.

3. Tuberculin testing of all children to find which have been infected and then if possible to find the source of such infection for proper isolation.

4. The teaching of the young, especially girls in their teens, as to proper clothing in cold weather, the taking of sufficient rest at night, and of proper nourishment to keep up normal resistance to disease at all times.

This is again the time of the year when we are called upon to buy Christmas seals to help in the fight against tuberculosis. This year the Crow Wing County Public Health Association has undertaken to give material assistance in the case finding campaign to be conducted in the sanatorium district out of its Christmas seal funds. This then is another reason why we should cooperate with them by buying seals with a will. The willing cooperation of every citizen is necessary if the great white plague is to be conquered in this generation.

Men Need More Sex Appeal in Clothes

Pittsburgh—Men are drab creatures because they, unlike women, refuse to instill sex appeal in their clothes.

"There's plenty of sex appeal in men's clothes, if you know how to emphasize it," Oscar J. Vogl, men's style expert explains, "but the men don't do it."

"Men's fashions tag along after those of women and so, like the women, men are going in for the tall willowy figure this fall. To create this effect tails on dress suits will be longer and waistcoats will be shorter. High belted topcoats, notched lapels and the two-button sack coat are all designed along this height-giving idea."

It's style that catches the feminine eye, and Vogl is of the following opinion:

"The man who's sloppy about the shoulders of his suit, the way his collar fits and its style, and the manner of head-piece he wears, is out with women."

DEAN T. BLANKE IS NEW STORE OWNER FORMERLY SCHMITZ'S

KANSAS MAN ENTERS BUSINESS
HERE; E. W. SCHMITZ IN WHOLESALE LINE

Dean T. Blanke, Manhattan, Kans., son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Webb, 604 North 5th street, today became owner and operator of the store formerly known as "Schmitz's," 214 South 6th street, through a transaction with E. W. Schmitz.

Schmitz announced he will devote his entire business interests to the wholesale division in the distribution of periodicals and newspapers in the district and will maintain his headquarters at 712 Front street, continuing the name of The Service News Agency.

The entire line of stock, fountain and lunch catering service will be continued in the store operated by Blanke. The new owner said he will retain the name of "Schmitz" for the present but contemplates changing the name in the near future.

The store will operate the same as heretofore selling periodicals, magazines, newspapers, souvenirs, candy, tobaccos, and featuring the fountain luncheonette service.

A. M. Cochrane, known as "Tippey," Manhattan, will be in personal charge of the fountain luncheonette.

Schmitz will retain the services of Elmer Anderson, Lillian Otterstad and Joe Lutz in the Service News Agency.

Mr. and Mrs. Blanke have established their home in Brainerd.

Christmas Tree Haulers Must Observe Load Limits

A warning to persons hauling Christmas trees by truck was issued this week by Earle Brown, chief of the Minnesota Highway patrol, cautioning them to comply with with-the requirements of the state traffic act.

Loads are by law limited to eight feet in width. Care must be taken that neither the butts nor any other parts of the trees extend beyond this limit.

All loads which exceed 80 inches in width must have clearance lights or reflectors on the left side, front and rear, visible 500 feet away under normal atmospheric conditions.

If the trees extend more than four feet beyond the rear end of the truck, a red flag must be attached in the daytime, and a red or yellow light or reflector at night.

Trees should be loaded so that they stay in place. The fact the load was within the limits at the start and shifted during the trip, is not a valid excuse.

WOMEN VOTERS HEAR REPORTS ON LEAGUE IMPROVEMENT AIMS

MRS. L. F. HAWKINSON AND MRS.
F. E. STOUT DISCUSS RECENT STATE MEET

At a well-attended meeting of the League of Women Voters on Monday, the official delegate, Mrs. L. F. Hawkins gave a fine report of the state convention held in Minneapolis. It covered such important matters as the county unit system in education, a state income tax, our antiquated and unscientific taxation methods, living costs and their relation to Muscle Shoals, supervised farming as one way to reduce the cost and introduce more scientific methods into agriculture.

She gave a more detailed report of the speech of Judge Florence Allen, of the supreme court of Ohio. This was a plea to the women to help organize the world for peace, instead of for war, by getting this country to join the World Court. Miss Allen stated that our newspapers disregarded the important work that this tribunal had done and was constantly doing by settling disputed questions that would inevitably have led to war if allowed to ferment. Although their work is done quietly and is never headlined in our papers, this court has settled many delicate and intricate international questions since its establishment.

Mrs. F. E. Stout, who attended the Child Welfare section of the convention and who is the local chairman of that important division, reported on the two measures that are to be placed on their active list—state ratification of the child labor amendment and a new federal Maternity and Infancy bill.

She stated that the real opposition to the child labor amendment came from the sugar beet farmers who imported whole families of Mexicans to do seasonal work and the wages were so pitifully small that they were stranded at the end of the season and drifted to the cities where they became public charges. There is also organized opposition from the canning factories, where child labor can be profitably employed.

In reporting on the need for a federal Maternity and Infancy bill, she stated that 25,000 women sacrifice their lives each year to bring native born citizens into these United States. In reporting this, the state chairman said: "If an epidemic should wipe out that many citizens a year, any amount of money necessary would be spent to stop it. But this yearly toll from child birth goes on without causing any particular attention." She stated that during the years when the Shepard-Towner bill was in force the percentage of deaths was gradually decreased until, at the time of repeal, there had been a gain of seven percent. But state funds, even when appropriated, were often used for other purposes and many states made no appropriation for this work whatever.

The chairman, Mrs. M. W. Richards, announced that the next meeting would be under the direction of the chairman of Women in Industry, Mrs. Robert Nicholl, and would be on the subject of unemployment. The date of this meeting will depend upon the convenience of the speaker chosen and the women were asked to watch for further announcements.

Only five days of the recent summer yielded twelve hours of sunshine in England.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—(UP)—From more than 100 players in midwestern football territory, the United Press has selected three mythical all-star teams composed of 33 individuals who by their consistent excellency of play throughout the season deserve ranking as the greatest group in this region.

They represent by no means all the outstanding players, but, on the whole, they are the pick of the midwest 1931 gridiron crop. A list of all the great and near great playing in Big Ten, Big Six, and Missouri Valley territory would be well nigh endless.

N. D. Places Six

Seven players from the Big Ten, two from Notre Dame, one from the Big Six and one from a little Iowa college are represented on the first team. Notre Dame placed six men on the three teams, more than any other school. Northwestern and Purdue came next with four each.

Brief descriptions of the players named on the first team follow:

Moss—Punter, pass catcher, ball carrier and great defensive player. Here's one of his typical plays: kicked out of bounds on Indiana's 6 yard line from his own 40 yard line, then blocked a kick on the next play and recovered it for a touchdown.

Marvil—Steadiest, most powerful player in Northwestern's strong line, weighs 225 pounds, and is fast. Recovering kicks down the field like an end. Star at opening holes for Rentner to slip through.

Munn Best Defensively

Munn—Best defensive lineman in Big Ten. Big, fast and versatile. Called out of line to punt and carry ball.

Miller—Deadliest tackler in Big Ten. Played almost perfect game against Northwestern, holding together an otherwise none too strong line from tackle to tackle.

Zeller—An all round star on a losing team who played one of the year's greatest games against Northwestern, seldom maneuvered out of position and uncanny ability to sift through and break up plays.

Cramer Good Field General

Kurth—Greatest all around lineman in the midwest who was never outplayed and who was at his best against Northwestern and Southern California. It was not until he left the game that Southern California started its winning drive.

Cronkite—The Big Six's best player. A bulwark on the defense and a miraculous pass catcher.

Cramer—Runner, punter, passer and field general. Spark plug of Ohio State team which was otherwise only fair. Outstanding sophomore in Big Ten.

Schwartz—Notre Dame's greatest back since George Gipp. He does everything, and all a little better when the going gets tough.

Richards—Obscured on little Simpson college of Indianola, Iowa. He could make any team in the country. An all around star who might have had his name in the headlines if he had played on a major college team.

Rentner—Big Ten's most dangerous runner since Red Grange, best passer in Big Ten until he broke his thumb early in November. With special defenses built to stop him Rentner still was able to outgain all other backs.

Yankee Hurler to Wed

Actress in Near Future

Rodeo, Calif., Dec. 1.—(UP)—Vernon Gomez, young pitcher for the New York Yankees, was en route to New York today for his marriage to June O'Day, actress, according to a statement of his brother, Earl Gomez, Rodeo fire chief. The brother said the ball player will establish his residence in New York.

Kid Chocolate to Meet

Al Singer on Dec. 11

New York, Dec. 1.—(UP)—Al Singer, the little Bronx Hebrew who won and lost the world's lightweight championship before he reached his majority, will have an opportunity to reestablish himself as a contender for the title in a 15-round bout with Kid Chocolate of Cuba in the Christmas fund show at Madison Square Garden, Dec. 11.

Chocolate and Singer signed contracts yesterday.

Singer will "warm up" for the Chocolate bout in a 10-round fight with Tommy Crowley of Pittsburgh at Columbus Sporting club tonight.

REPORT OF GRIMES, CARDS ACE, ON BLOCK STIRS MINOR MOCULS

DONIE BUSH'S NAME MENTIONED AS NEW MANAGER OF SAN FRANCISCO CLUB

West Baden, Ind., Dec. 1.—(UP)—Meetings of the Western and Southern leagues occupied the attention of minor league club owners and officials today on the eve of the opening of the minor league convention here tomorrow. The convention will continue through Friday.

A majority of the club owners of the 16 surviving minor leagues agree that something must be done to save minor league baseball from dying a slow death, and they plan to take some action this week towards avoiding it. Even the major league club owners, most of whom are here, are anxious to help the minors save their financial problems.

One suggestion has been to levy a tax on the broadcast of major league games, pool the revenue and have reported that broadcasting of major league games hurt attendance considerable in minor league cities.

Another suggestion, made by Dale Gear, president of the Western league, concerned a modified farm system, whereby each major league club would agree to help one minor league club. In return the major league club would get first shot at the best player on the team and the third best player, with the minor club having the privilege of selling the second best.

Many rumors about player deals floated around the lobby today. One was that Burleigh Grimes, St. Louis Cardinals pitcher and hero of the world series, would be placed on the market and that the Chicago Cubs would bid for him.

The San Francisco Pacific Coast league club was looking for a manager and Donie Bush's name was linked with the job. Bush has been mentioned also in connection with the Minneapolis managerial position. Bush is here, but has nothing to say about his future plans.

Alias—Knew Him Well

Fort Worth, Tex.—No trouble at all did J. C. Williams have in getting out of jury duty in the trial of A. L. McNutt, up for robbery. Williams was taken before McNutt, and Prosecutor Will Parker put the usual question. "Do you know this defendant" to him. "Yes," Williams answered. "How well do you know him?" Parker asked. Williams smiled and replied, "He held me up two years ago." He was excused.

WARNER SLATED TO SUCCEED MEEHAN; BIERMAN TO U. OF M.

NEW YORK U. MENTOR SAID TO BE IN LINE TO SUCCEED BIERMAN AT TULANE

New York, Dec. 1.—(UP)—Chick Meehan of New York University, Benny Bierman of Tulane and Glenn (Pop) Warner of Stanford were linked today in a reported shift of football coaches.

The report, accepted in New York as a definite fact, has Meehan resigning from N. Y. U. to succeed Bierman at Tulane, with "official announcement" promised after Saturday's charity contest between N. Y. U. and Tennessee.

Bierman, reputedly, has promised to accept the head coaching post at his alma mater, Minnesota.

Although Warner recently said he preferred a far west coaching post to one in the east, the gossip says that he will ask to be considered by N. Y. U. as Meehan's successor.

Both Bierman and Warner can remain at the present schools, but Meehan, despite his success, is at odds with N. Y. U. athletic authorities and is not expected to be offered a new contract.

Vanquished by Carnera, Campolo Retires from Ring

New York, Dec. 1.—(UP)—Victorio Campolo, once named by the late Tex Rickard and Commission William Muldoon as the most promising contender for the world's heavyweight boxing championship, has quit the ring and will sail for Buenos Aires within the fortnight.

The six feet, seven inch, 224-pound Argentine Cauchio came to the United States as a raw novice, was over-matched and defeated by Phil Scott, Johnny Risko, Tommy Loughran, and Ernie Schaaf of Boston.

The lanky South American was given a chance to redeem himself in a "dreadnaught championship" bout with Primo Carnera, but after failing to stop the Italian in his first rush, "retired."

BRAINERD'S TOURIST TRADE--

Speaking within restraint, it is quite within bounds to say that there are close to forty millions of people living in the circle which surrounds Brainerd in a radius of eight hundred miles. It is just a day's ride either by train or automobile and less than that in the airplane. In fact, Brainerd is located strategically in that it is easily accessible by any method of transportation.

So after all deductions and allowances, it may be truthfully said that these millions are as well-to-do as any other group of millions on earth. The cabins of individuals, whose homes are in every section of the country, is direct evidence of this fact.

This reference is to settled, not to floating population. But while not floating, this group is very mobile and it is almost as likely that the assessor will find an automobile at every home as that he will see a chimney on every house.

It is not surprising then that observers report an anticipated increase hereabouts in the tourist movement next year. They come in from all directions. Large numbers come from outside the limits just defined, but if the stream of tourist travel were fed only from the circle indicated it would be a big thing.

It is a pleasant outlook. Millions and millions think of Brainerd when they think of vacation, and the special population in our circle thinks of vacation every year.

Let them come. Disappointment does not await them here. It won't be long now before this Brainerd Lake Region will be swarming with people seeking repose, recuperation, change of scene, investments, farms, homes, diversion in hunting and fishing, etc.

There is a good time coming in the tourist trade. Time was when it was not so easy to bring them here, now it would be impossible to keep them away.

THE YULETIDE SPIRIT--

Another few days will see Brainerd draped in gayly colored and festooned embellishments befitting the Yuletide season. Downtown streets will take on a multi-colored hue with red, white and blue lights set in a Christmas motif and merchants are planning novel and attractive displays in anticipation of the visit of Santa Claus.

Only about 20 more shopping days remain before Christmas and the postoffice department has already sent out its annual admonition to "mail early."

Now with the streets flaunting colors of the Christmastide generating a sincere and genuine Yuletide spirit, let us do our shopping now while the stocks are replete with fine and beautiful merchandise.

BAKER'S ANTI-WAR PLAN--

Newton D. Baker's speech at Boston urging passage by Congress of the Capper resolution calls attention to one of the simplest and most promising anti-war measures yet proposed.

The Capper resolution would bind the United States not to be a market for finances, industrial goods, farm products or munitions for any nation which went to war in violation of a previous agreement to arbitrate international troubles.

Its advantages are obvious. Many nations would be reluctant to enter a war if they knew that American markets and banking houses would be closed to them. Furthermore, if a war did get started there would be much less chance for the United States to get involved through commercial and financial ties with one of the combatants.

Mr. Baker believes that adoption of such a policy by the United States would prevent large-scale wars. The plan is at least worth a trial.

WHEN YOUNGSTERS DRIVE--

One of the most disturbing traffic accidents of the season is that recently recorded in Kansas City, where an auto driven by a 14-year-old boy knocked down and killed a pedestrian at a street intersection.

No youngster of 14, of course, or of an age anywhere near 14, should ever be permitted to drive an automobile on any public street. In this case, to be sure, the lad is said to have been driving without his parents' consent; but that fact only adds to the weight of the object lesson.

Parents must not only keep their children out of the driver's seat. They must see to it, very rigidly, that the ruling is obeyed. When a child of that age does drive, and gets involved in an accident, the major part of the responsibility rests on his father and mother. Keeping child-drivers off the streets is primarily their job, not the police department's.

DREISER'S INVESTIGATION--

The American public, very likely, would like to know whether there is any truth in the state of Kentucky's charges that Theodore Dreiser has been guilty of immoral conduct, criminal syndicalism, and so on. But first it would greatly prefer to learn whether there is any truth in Dreiser's charges against the Kentucky coal barons.

Dreiser charges flatly that striking miners' homes are dynamited and burned, that children in the coal fields are dying at the rate of seven or eight a week of undernourishment, that local officials regard themselves as agents of the mine owners and that the pay of the miners has been forced down to 80 cents a day.

Those charges are exceedingly serious. The public would like to know if any or all of them are true—and it is willing to let the counter-charges against Dreiser rest until it finds out.

THE UNWRITTEN LAW--

A recent well-publicized shooting has raised anew the question of the "unwritten law," by which a brother is held justified in killing a man who has betrayed his sister; and the comments of Judge Ben B. Lindsey are, perhaps, worth a little of your consideration.

"I have never yet," says Judge Lindsey, "seen a case of that sort which could not be settled around the dinner table, or before some person who could act as advisor. The girl might be persuaded to discontinue her associations with the man. If she loves him, or will not stop seeing him, the couple should marry. But there's never an excuse for gunplay in a problem of that kind."

This, it seems to us, is a neat little dose of common sense for a situation that is very seldom discussed calmly or rationally.

Gems of Peril

HAZEL
HAILEY

©1931 BY NEA Service Inc

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MARY HARKNESS plots to ensnare THE FLY, who she believes "framed" her brother, EDDIE, with the murder of old MRS. JUPITER, and later ran Eddie down and killed him. She is aided by BOWEN of the Star. Mary's fiance, DIRK HUYTER, believes Eddie guilty, as do police, who give up the investigation.

BRUCE JUPITER, in his father's bad graces, vows to rout Mary, who he believes is a gold-digger. Jupiter has made Mary his heir. Dirk orders Mary to abandon the investigation, but she goes to Miami on the Jupiter yacht, hearing The Fly will be at Hialeah to see his horse run.

She meets COUNT DE LOMA, old acquaintance of COUNTERS LOUISE, Bruce's friend. De Loma is listed as the owner of The Fly's horse. MR. JUPITER buys a second-hand car of the same make as that used by the murderer, and finds Eddie's L. O. R. for $15,000 in it.

Bruce and Louise quarrel because she cannot explain where she got a diamond bracelet. Louise says it is Mary's. Bruce makes her give the bracelet to Mary, who discovers it was stolen from Jupiter the night she was killed. Mary locks it in the hotel safe and takes out the rubies to wear at a hotel fete. Dirk arrives with the party of CORNELIA TABOR, Mary's rival.

Wearing the famous Jupiter necklace, Mary dances with The Fly. She is accidentally left alone with him in his pocket. They dance and he kisses her. Dirk, who a few minutes before had cut Mary dead, knocks De Loma down.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XL

FOR the space of a breath, Mary could not look. Pure terror, and the certainty that Dirk was about to be killed, paralyzed her. She heard a rush of footsteps, then a heavy thud, and opened her eyes slowly.

Dirk lay on the floor, doubled up, his face contorted with pain. As she looked, his face turned a dull greenish white and he toppled limply over on his face.

"Fainted!" "My God, he's broken his leg!" "Get a doctor, quick!" A chorus of alarmed cries went up. Several men bounded forward. De Loma, who was slowly backing toward the door, whirled about. The sight of the circle of men in evening-dress who were closing in on him gave an edge of panic to his voice.

"I didn't touch him!" he kept repeating. "You saw me—I didn't touch him!"

"That's all right. Not your fault!" several of them reassured him. "He just slipped. Not your fault!"

But they remained at his elbows, at least two of them did. Mary began to guess they were either men whom Bates had employed to guard the exits, in case of just such an emergency as this, or employees of the hotel. De Loma watched them warily, apparently feeling a healthy respect for them, for he had quickly covered that tell-tale reach for his gun.

One of the men spoke to him out of the corner of his mouth, and he said was clearly audible to Mary. "Hand over that gun and then waltz out of here, and be damned quick about it." There was an exchange of something from hand to hand—De Loma looked about and shifted restlessly. At any moment he might bolt for it. She realized suddenly that they did not know of the presence of her handbag in his pocket, or they would not let him go so easily. It was up to her to stop him.

"Don't leave me!" she cried, leaping up and grasping his arm. "Help me get him to a doctor—there must be one in the hotel somewhere—"

Dirk's bloodless face frightened her. The portly manager arose from having made a gentle thumping of the hurt ankle, and reported, "He's just wrenched it. Don't try to bring him to! He's better off that way until he's moved."

He dusted off his hands briskly. "Lift him, you two," he indicated the stalwart gentlemen who had been flanking De Loma with gentle but firm insistence. "Now, where to? What's his room number? Anybody know? Where've his friends gone?"

Where, indeed? For the first time Mary remembered Cornelia and Ethel. They had disappeared. "I'll take care of him," Mary put in.

THE manager caught a glimpse of pleading, tear-filled eyes. A glance showed him that Dirk still was unconscious. The man must be gotten out of there quickly—it little mattered where. Most of the diners had already returned to their tables but the party would be ruined if the dancing was not quickly resumed. Anger followed alarm, and he fairly snapped out:

"Well, I don't care where you take him, just so you get him out of here! And you, too!" He whirled on De Loma, who was standing by, only too pleased to get off without a more rigorous calling to accounts. What was this puffy little manager's ire, against a clean getaway with the Jupiter rubies in his pocket? He could afford to stand and take it; he did so, holding himself tightly, the muddied yellow of his eyeballs showing below the half-hidden pupils. He looked like an animal about to charge.

Although he had made no protest, the manager yelled at him as if he had—mostly for effect. "I don't know whose fault it was! I don't care. But if you're still here in five minutes I'll call the police—the lot of you! Where do you think you are? You New York rowdies come down here and think you can—"

His muttering trailed off as he bustled away, scattering a gaping group of waiters with snarled commands, vigorously nodding to the orchestra leader who obediently struck up a noisy jazz number. An excited buzz of conversation rose in the dining-room as they left, surface order having been restored.

Now it became clear what had become of Cornelia and Ethel. With the instinct of self-preservation rising above every other consideration, they had allowed themselves to be taken in tow by a glittering dowager, who was taking it upon herself to see that they were shielded from unpleasantness. Mary recognized the woman, who was preparing to huddle her charges into the first elevator that came up, as a rich climber, who no doubt thanked her stars for this Heaven-sent opportunity of making herself "solid" with the right set.

What she did not know, however, was that the flower of the Tabor clan tomorrow would not be able to recall having met her. In the meantime, Cornelia and her chum would have sneaked away from the sordid scene of battle, and by the time the newspapers got wind of the affair, they would be safely entrenched behind their locked hotel-room doors. Dirk could look after himself! It was his fault, for having precipitated such a scene.

His fault! It was her own fault, Mary knew. And although she despised Cornelia for her heartlessness and self-interest, she also burned with shame for her own part in the ugly business.

Now Dirk was here, for the time being. She would take care of him until the foot healed, at least. Then if he chose to go back to Cornelia, she would have to let him go. She hugged to her heart fiercely the hope that this time they would never be parted again.

THE manager dog-trotted ahead of them, clearing the way for the two men who were carrying Dirk—a waiter, and a tall young man with the build of a football player, who had volunteered to help.

The dowager, secretly hoping that the man was a reporter no doubt, threw her arms about the girls, shoving them behind her.

"Sir! These young women have nothing to do with it. I refuse to permit them to be annoyed!"

"Madam, I don't know what you're talking about, but stand back away from the elevator, please. This man must be taken to a doctor."

Miffed, the lady huddled her chicks a few feet away. Dirk was lifted into the car and let down gently on the elevator man's stool. Dirk's eyes were closed and his lips drawn tightly back with the effort not to cry out. Mary could not bear the sight; he looked as if he might be dead. Her heart constricted cruelly.

She stepped on the elevator quickly, and beckoned De Loma after her. He hesitated, then followed.

It was at this point that Cornelia became aware of what was happening. In her desire to avoid undesirable notoriety, she had not noticed Mary's presence in the party until she was already on the car. Jealousy overcame discretion, and Cornelia rushed out, crying sharply "Stop! Don't let her—"

"All right, George," the tall man said hurriedly under his breath, and the elevator dropped suddenly, cutting off her words in mid-air. The car's plunge swung Dirk about, and he moaned faintly. Mary, clasping his shoulders with fingers like steel, to hold him motionless, pleaded with the operator to go more slowly. The car steadied, crawled smoothly down, bounded a little at the bottom, and that stage of the painful trip was completed.

"Now where to, lady?"

"Can you carry him a little farther—just to a taxi?" She remembered suddenly that there had been a dinner-party before all this happened. "The check," she cried, impatiently. "Did anyone pay it?"

"You're with Mr. Jupiter's party, ain't you?" gasped the waiter, stooping to put his weight under Dirk's limp shoulder. "It's all right. Mr. Jupiter paid it. Take hold of his legs, there, brother. That's it!"

"Say!" the tall man interjected—he was, as she discovered later, the house detective—"there's a doctor right here in the hotel. Why lug him any farther?"

"He's with my party on the 'Gypsy,'" Mary interrupted hurriedly. "The captain is a very good doctor. If we can just get him out there—before any reporters come. It would embarrass his family frightfully—to say nothing of me—"

The house detective hunched his shoulders indifferently. "Anything you please. Have you got a cab?"

DE LOMA, who had been hovering restlessly nearby, now started forward as if galvanized.

"I'll get one!" he called back, and ran swiftly to the door. Before she could cry out, he had pushed past the gaping doorman and plunged into the street.

"Stop that man! Oh, stop him!" "What?" The detective frowned. "I took his gun off of him, sister—he's harmless—"

She nearly choked trying to explain to him in time that De Loma had her handbag and that it held a necklace worth hundreds of thousands of dollars. She ran after De Loma, the slow-witted detective following, behind them an open-mouthed waiter and a bellhop struggled slowly along with Dirk groaning in their arms.

But when she had gained the sidewalk, she was surprised to see De Loma walking toward her at a restrained pace. He was perspiring, as if he had been running—but apparently he had looked in the wrong direction for a cab, for one was already drawn up at the curb, waiting.

Mary simply could not figure it out. He had started out on the run—why should he be walking back so sedately? She gave the detective a puzzled look, and he looked at her as if he thought she must be drunk—or crazy. Then around the corner of the hotel a policeman walked, billy in hand. He approached and eyed the group suspiciously.

He tapped De Loma on the arm. "Hey, buddy, where were you going in such a hurry?"

"I told you!" De Loma snarled. "To find a cab for this man here—" he indicated Dirk just being lifted out the doorway.

The policeman looked at the house detective. "O. K." he said and moved off.

"Now," said the house detective to Mary, "what's all this about your handbag?"

Mary reddened, as she looked at De Loma. She was in the right but they made her feel as if she were in the wrong.

"I thought I'd lost it," she stammered. "I forgot you had it!"

There was nothing to do but hand it over, which De Loma did grimly. Mary opened it—there was the excuse that she had to tip the waiter and the bellboy who were mopping their brows and panting on the curb, after having got Dirk safely into the waiting taxi. Her hand searched the silken depths desperately. The necklace was there!

BRAINERD

December 1, 1906

One of the swell social events of the season was the calico ball given at Elks hall Friday evening. The hostesses were Misses Louise Beare, Ethel Parker, Maebelle Grewco, Ethel Moberg and Kittie Johnson. The hall was beautifully decorated with palms and equipped with charming cozy corners. The lady guests appeared attired in calico as were the hostesses. The grand march, played by Grahama orchestra, was led by Miss Maebelle Grewco and F. B. Small. Next came Miss Ethel Parker and J. P. McGinnis, Miss Louise Beare and Charles Mahlum, Miss Kittie Johnson and Clyde Parker, Miss Ethel Moberg and Carl Dillon. Then followed the entire assemblage of about 75 couples. The party broke up in the early hours of the morning.

F. E. Parker of Duluth arrived in the city today to be the guest of Dr. J. L. Camp for a few days.

Miss Addie Stoll, Little Falls, who had been visiting at the home of John Koop, returned to her home today.

George West went to Milaca this morning to visit relatives. Mrs. West who is now there will return with him the first of the week.

The train crew which came down from the north today reports that the temperature at Bemidji and Northome last night was 12 degrees below zero.

Miss Lillian Hoffman was operated on at the N. P. Sanitarium today for appendicitis. She rallied well and is doing nicely this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blakeslee are the happy parents of an eight pound boy which arrived at their home last night.

Worrying about-- Blood Pressure?

At the first sign of danger, take a laxative. Cut down on alcohol, coffee and tobacco. Eat lightly for several days. Take a tablespoonful of mentha pepsin before meals to make digestion as easy as possible. Keep quiet until your stomach is settled and the dizzy spells have passed.

Have your physician check your blood pressure at frequent intervals. Continue to protect yourself by taking mentha pepsin before every meal. (You can get Dare's Mentha Pepsin from Skaggs Drug Co. or any other reliable druggist.) Avoid heavy food and too heavy meals—especially at night.

Do this faithfully and the chances are that you will prevent—or at least postpone—the danger of a stroke.—Adv.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor of The Dispatch: Mary stories of late are rife. Of how the Dems. will use the knife. But what is the Dif to you and me? Whether the Dems. are in, or the G. O. P.

They both are loaded to the brim. From the center outward, to the rim. Each one trying hard to rustle. Votes enough to win the tussle.

Whether one gets in or one gets out. It's just the same or just about. How long or short the fight may be. The price is paid by you and me.

Sure both these parties cannot win. One will be out, the other in. (The only difference between them) see.

So what's the Dif. to you and me?

L. W. TYRRELL.

To the Editor of The Daily Dispatch: We have been given to understand that from the first of February, 32 no more back numbers of magazines will be loaned out of the public library. What it means is that the Volstead percentage of us lower classes who read and partially understand what we read, must not get any facts about our government or science.

Most of us cannot afford to keep any high grade reading as times are now. Can it be that the church politicians are afraid of the coming election; if so can assure them that we will vote for Hoover prosperity. Borah maybe. Smith or Cannon or anything the pastors think best for themselves. Is it any use to ask the help of some higher ups.

The old man or otherwise.

BRAINONIAN ANNUAL VODVIL TO BE PRESENTED TOMORROW EVENING

MANY TALENTED PLAYS AND SKITS TO BE GIVEN

The Brainerd Annual Vodvil opens with great pomp and ceremony this Wednesday night at 8 o'clock upon the scene of the Brainerd High School Band in their blue and white uniforms. They will play several pieces with their usual pep and vivacity. "The Ventriloquist Act" with Allan McKay and James Falconer will demonstrate the remarkable powers of these talented young men.

Now comes the main show, the headline of the program, the spicing of life—"Apple Pie," a twelve act drama that will bring tears to the eyes of the audience to be immediately followed by laughter. A drama that will break your heart and strengthen your vocal chords. The imitable cast is as follows: Levey, Hildegard Holm; Dovey, Allan Faine; Junior, Lester Preston; Vacuum Cleaner Lady, Lela Schobe; Newspaper Man, Robert Ebert; Stocking Lady, Alyce Little; Brush Lady, Mae McQuillan; Mrs. Brown, Anna Cass; Borrowing Neighbor, Kathleen Cardle. The little piece of life has twelve acts which ought to be of benefit to many husbands and wives.

A dance by Ray Nelson will follow. Hot upon the heels of this drama, and then "Belle's Bill," a touching (?) little love story portrayed by Dwight Curo, Alice Nolan and James Falconer will be sure to affect the hearts of the audience.

Again, the band will add spice to the program by several snappy pieces both classical and popular.

"Ultra Modern School" of great interest to both teachers and pupils will hold the methods of teaching and learning (1999). The worthy teacher is Frances Reese; Marjorie Forsberg is Jane; Dorothy Kinney is Flossie; Algren, John Folsom; Fannie, Kathryn Saxrud; Edward, Alfred Menz; Bob, Clayton Peterson; Tom, Clifford Dybick. We hear that the pupils can even eat candy in this school.

Virginia Wilson, dancing lightly on to the stage, will form the next attraction on the program. This will be followed right after by the play "In 1999." The nature of this play has been kept in the dark very much but we venture to say that the spectators are due for a very pleasant surprise. Elmer Foster carries the role of John, the host; Dave Templeton is Henry; Howard Zander is Albert; Roger Nelson is Frank; Fred Doepeke is Orville; Gerry Wygle is Mr. and Algernon Jones (ahem).

Either Donald Hanson, Louise Klusman or Myles Hall "Sees All—Knows All," for that is what one of them will do as soon as they are given the liberty of the stage after "In 1999."

Alta Creger dances after this act and then comes "Over the Top," with Julius Kaudsen leading a quartet over the top. This tells their fears and apprehensions (if they have any) before they commit this formidable feat.

All in all, the Vodvil this year promises to be one of the best in recent years. Let's all support it and make the Annual for the high school a success. Unless this is supported well an annual for the high school will be impossible. Students! Support your Annual! Show Your True School Spirit!

Coming or Going, We Ketch 'Em

Campfire Group Gives Dinner in Cafeteria

The high school Camp Fire group held a dinner party in the cafeteria last Tuesday. This dinner was given by the wood-gatherers to help obtain their fire makers rank.

Part of the entertainment consisted of the reading of the poems, which the girls had written. In these poems the girls told how they earned their quarters to pay their dues. Some of these were very interesting.

Another means by which the girls are going to earn money, is selling Christmas cards.

Crosby-Ironton High Organizes School Paper

Crosby-Ironton high school has organized its school paper and the staff will publish the first edition early this month. The staff of the "Crosbronite" was published last week and the following are members: Barbara Pearl, editor; Clara Vivian, assistant editor; Nicholas Kueckerbocker, business manager; activities, Verona Lydick and Robert Dahlsten; athletics, Harry Haaskamp and Emily Moran; literary, Nan Seallon and Billy VanEvert; humor, Gertrude Papuene and Aloha Browne; features, Morton Magoffin.

Calendar of November

Nov. 2—Everyone came back to school telling about the Halloween pranks they took part in.

Nov. 3—Donald Hanson was caught in the act of winking at a girl in the assembly.

Nov. 4—Delbert Darling made a new resolution to Miss Show. He promised her he wouldn't talk to Sweed anymore.

Nov. 5—Miss Corfield had a pet cat in the library and everyone took part in petting it.

Nov. 6—Miss Richard said, "Jazz music sounds like a Unka-punka-punka and some sounds punka than others."

Nov. 9—Drexel Geist looked so happy he made us all wonder where he spent the weekend.

Nov. 10—A very amusing dance was presented to us by the boys, dressed as girls, on the football team. We were all very surprised at their talent.

Nov. 11—The lay of the big Brainerd and C-I game. Last game of the season and we won!

Nov. 12—A very bad case of sleepiness seemed to effect a majority of the students after the Armistice Day celebration.

Nov. 13—We all had the pleasure of having "Queen" a little black bear show us her tricks. She also was willing to let anyone ride her that could.

Nov. 14—What's all the scandal going on about Frances Reese and Hildegard Holm?

Nov. 17—More than 400 students participated in Bonfire Pep Fest held at the local gridiron. The evening became a big success.

Nov. 18—The Junior and Senior picnic was a big success, everyone had a good time.

Nov. 19—Dr. William Sainsbury addressed the student body in auditorium.

Nov. 20—It rained all day Friday, everybody was commenting on the disagreeable weather.

Nov. 23—After the cold weather we had over the weekend, we noticed a lot of the students have gotten out their red flannels.

Nov. 24—There was a cramming of knowledge into the brain today because of the stiff six weeks quizzes in view.

Nov. 25—We were all wished a very happy Thanksgiving Day by Mr. Dammann. And we were presented with a program.

Nov. 26-27-28-29-30 — After that big thankful day and vacation we were all glad to return to our studies.

SPEAKERS ADDRESS PRESS DELEGATES AT BANQUET

At 6:30 o'clock Friday evening, members of the Press Association attended the banquet which was held in the cafeteria of the Austin high school. The cafeteria is fully twice as large as ours and long tables were set throughout the room, with various placards used on the banquet tables to designate the cities from which the students and advisers came.

The menu consisted of: fruit cocktail, olives, radishes, Hormel flavor sealed ham, cranberry relish, escalloped potatoes, baked squash, clover leaf rolls, combination salads, coffee, devil's food cake and ice cream.

The first course seemed to arouse much spirit in the delegates from St. Paul high school (who was so well represented that they occupied a table alone) having an especially amusing leader, began to give cheers for their school. This also aroused enthusiasm in students from Albert Lea, and they, too, began to give cheers.

The delegates of Brainerd were very much surprised when they heard Austin give a yell for them, which was followed by a yell from St. Cloud, also for Brainerd. To be as official as St. Paul, Albert Lea offered more competition by singing a song, "Get Up Brainerd, Get Up," at which time the four students from Brainerd had to stand up and make their curtsies.

With more than four hundred delegates from forty-one high schools, much noise was heard throughout the school.

The program for the evening was as follows: Toastmaster, Harry E. Rasmussen, publisher of The Austin Daily Herald; address, "Face to Face With Romance," by W. L. Maple, assistant editor of "American Boy Magazine;" cornet duet, by Lester Erickson and Clifford Elrick; address, "Experience of a Newspaper Reporter," by L. M. Harkness, managing editor of "Minneapolis Journal."

Elaborate Plans Made for Sophomore Party

Elaborate plans are being made by the Sophomore class for a party to be held in the gym and cafeteria at a future date. The executive committee is trying to arrange for a vacant night. Two committees have been appointed, namely the entertainment committee headed by Eileen Rasch and the food committee lead by Anabel Paine. All Sophomores who have not paid their dues will not be able to attend because the number of people attending must be affirmed before the party.

THANKSGIVING PROGRAM PRESENTED TO STUDENT BODY WEDNESDAY

XCHANGE XTRACTS

Pinee Post; Bemidji, Minn.

On Wednesday night, Nov. 18, the school held its annual banquet for the football team. Fourteen letters were given out and only six letters were to be coming back.

The lettermen elected Bob La Baw captain of the team for next year.

The Magnet; Owatonna, Minn.

A study of the school bank record shows that this school appears on the Thrift Almanac honor roll of high schools having approximately two-thirds and more of the student population as owners and users of bank books.

The Mac Weekly, Macalester College.

The question debated by the Psi Kappa Delta debate festival was: Resolved that courting can be done more efficiently in a horse and buggy than in an automobile.

The University High School in Minneapolis sent six delegates to the press convention in Austin, Minn.

CONVENTION DANCE HELD IN AUSTIN

EIGHT AUSTIN STUDENTS CONSTITUTE CONVENTION ORCHESTRA

An extra edition of the Austin Sentinel was given to each guest at the end of the program. Also, a booklet of the most interesting scenes of Austin was delivered to each person.

At 9 p. m. everyone was ushered into the gym where the dance was to be held. Everyone joined in the dance and had a most enjoyable evening.

Crepes, paper, balloons, streamers and flowers constituted the various decorations used in the gym and cafeteria at the Press Convention; committees of students in the journalism class of Austin prepared the decorations.

The orchestra was composed of eight students of the Austin high school.

During the intermission at the dance the following program was rendered: Xylophone solo, C. V. Sperati; selection by the Girls' Quartet; a dance novelty by two girls, Helen Kickover and Marjorie Hartman; a skit, "Too Many Suitors," featuring Lois Padelford.

All persons who took part in this program were students and teachers of Austin high.

Attendants at the dance all seemed to enjoy breaking the strings from which the balloons hung, and decorated themselves with them. Also, the students were very much amused when they saw the Social Science teachers (tallest man in the gym) jump to his highest altitude in order to get balloons for those who were not as tall.

The dance ended at 12 p. m.

Fran' Sez

In Brainerd high it is easy to keep up with the Joneses but just you try to keep up with the Andersons. There are but three Joneses while there are but 23 Andersons. The Johnsons are coming up with 14 while the Petersons and the Mes run for third place with 13 each. The Olsens follow with ten, and the Nelsons with eight. Smiths are usually quite prominent but here we have only four.

The Dorothys have the most common girls name, there being 17 of them. The Helens and Margarets take a close second with 15 and 14 respectively. The Roberts are even more common than the Dorothys since there are 19 of them. The Johns and Georges come in nearer the Roberts than any other with eight apiece. There seems to be more of a variety of boys names than girls but then there are more of the feminine than masculine in the school.

In the senior class there are 53 boys to 70 girls. The junior girls have 76 lockers while the boys occupy only 69. The sophomore girls own 21 more combs than the boys, there being 89 girls to 62 boys. And the Freshie girls outnumber the boys by a score of 136 to 114 or a total of 290 or a total of 255 boys to 371 girls. Imagine, a girl and 3-5 for each boy.

If you'd like a bouquet of flowers why not gather up the Lillys, Ferns, Daisies, Roses, Violets, and Buds that blossom in the halls. Or a necklace? Gather the jewels from the Opals, Rubies, and Pearls that gladden in the class rooms.

Rev. C. J. Ackerman Aids in Hi-Y Ritual

Last Wednesday the new members of the Hi-Y were put through ritual, a very elaborate and religious service in which Rev. C. J. Ackerman of the Swedish Temple assisted.

Following the services Rev. Ackerman gave a short but humorous talk on his experiences in the World war.

It was decided, in a short business meeting, that next Monday the Hi-Y would meet with the Tri-Hi for a business meeting.

MR. ELLERTON AND PEP BAND LEAD IN COMMUNITY SINGING

Mr. Dammann in behalf of the faculty, opened the Thanksgiving program Wednesday at 2:45, wishing the student body a most enjoyable and pleasant Thanksgiving.

The Pep band played, "Under the Double Eagle." LeRoy Anderson announced the program.

Dorothy Maghan, who won second prize on her essay, "The Origin of Thanksgiving," in the annual contest read it to the assembly. The first prize went to Ralph Purdy with his "Thanksgiving Day," which brought many a laugh from the students.

The girls octette sang "Give Thanks Unto the Lord." And not to forget that "When There's a Will There's a Way," a reading by Irja Huhtala.

Mr. Ellerton led the assembly in song with Esther Kukkonen at the piano. Such songs as "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain," "I Don't Know Why," "Now You're My Arms," and "Goodnight Sweetheart" were sung. The band closed the program with "On Wisconsin," "Go Brainerd High School," and "Cheer! Cheer!"

Breezy's Breezes

Yep, Sary my wife, sure is a smart one. Now I'm right proud o' Sary but she shore do give me a hitch now an then. Just to show how smart she be—well, she wuz bawlin' out the grocer today fer not sendin' her fresh, young lettuce. An' he asts, wuzn't it young you got, ma'am? An' she retorts back, young? It's almost old enough to wash an' dress itself. Poor fella, he just kinda looks a minute at her. But as I say, Sary do give me a hitch some time. She's right purty, now, too, when she be fixed up in her ribbons an' got her curlers slept on at night all right. An' I been considerable worried the way she be a flirtin' with the ice-man. So one day Tommy sez to me, "Tommy is right smart, too, like his Ma—an' he sez, Pa, gimme a dime? An' I sez, No Tommy, not today. Tommy sez, If I tell you what the ice-man said to Ma this mornin' will you give me a dime? I sez quick reachin' in my pocket, Here, son, what did he say? An' Tommy sez back he sed, "Lady do you want any ice this mornin'?" Well, I never did believe strongly in black-mail.

Last nite Abernathy Cutchins come over to call on Nellie. Now they be sparkin' an' spoonin' quite some lately an' I gess there be serious intentions. Fact, Nellie has been a sewin' towels an' napkins of evenin's an' lookin' mighty pert an' fixed up meetin' nites an' when she be singin' in the choir. Now, I hate to lose Nellie but I'd hope for her happiness. So las' nite Abernathy come to call. Net takes him in the parlor all a blushin'. Course I waint curious or nothin' but I just listened by the door to see that everythin' fer you, honey. Oh, lemme see it Abe, Nel cries. Hole out yer hand, he sez, I'm a goin' to put it where it b'longs. Oh, Abe—an' it is a shure enuff diamon? Nellie asts, An' Abernathy replise, Well, if et ain't, honey, I been beat out o' a perfectly good half-dollar! An' Nellie sighs sweet like, An' then they comes in an' tells us about it an' we all fell purty mighty happy fer 'em.

Then the next day I goes over to Cutchins for to borrow Ed's harness. The missus was a doin' of some washin' in the yard with tubs an' washboards a settin' round. An' I sets down to chat a bit. Purty soon Jane, Abe's sister, comes out. She sez to her Ma, but twinkle up at me, Ma, have you seen Abe's new fiancée? Missus Cutchins sets the washboard down, wipes the soap off her hands, and looks round. No she sez puzzled, I don't know but et haint been in the wash this week. I didn't know why Jane sez o' lafs choked like, but just then Lem Cutchins comes out so we goes to the stable for the harness. Seems like Lem wuz kinda peevish about somethin' an' I asts not curious but helpin' like what it wuz. He sez Jake, his son, is gettin' his head full o' fool notions 'bout airplanes. It's foolishness, he sputters, plain foolishness. These here new fangled carriages! Yell perhaps think I'm tellin' y a lie, but I ain't never seen a airplane in my life, an' what's more, I don't want to—I hates the sight of 'em!

Wall, wall, that's too bad, I sort o' sympathize.

Yes, an' it ain't all. Dr. Brown brings me a pill las' nite fer my dispepsy an' sez if I kin retain it on me astumik it ought t' cure me. An' today he calls an' asts me how I managed. An' I plunk up an' tole him I couldn't do it. It was all right when I wuz awake, but every time I fell asleep the dern thing rolled off!

Well, I cheered him up best as I could an' wanders home. Nearly forgot that the ice-man comes of late noon now instead of mornin's.

WEST PLANNING CONQUEST OF 1,800,000 ACRES

CONGRESS TO HEAR ABOUT COLUMBIA RIVER PROJECT

Washington—(UP)—Conquest by irrigation of another great inland empire, to add to America's power and food productivity, awaits the words of congress.

Proposals for development of the Columbia River basin, which includes more than 1,800,000 acres of arid and semi-arid land in Washington state will be pressed by the senators and congressmen of the three northwestern states.

Preparatory steps for an $800,000,000 project, destined to provide 40 billion kilowatts of power annually and support a population of perhaps 1,000,000 are expected to be taken on the basis of Army engineers' reports.

Sale of power for commercial use, and payments of farmers for irrigation water, are planned to repay the projected expenditure by the federal government. Seven huge dams on the Columbia and Snake Rivers are proposed, along with a large canal to furnish transportation to the Pacific Coast.

Interior Department officials, who have studied the proposal on the basis of results in the other irrigation and reclamation projects estimate that a farm income of $79,000,000 might be produced; that 24,000 farms of 80 acres each would support a rural population of 120,000, with a similar population in new towns, and a possible 500,000 population increase in Portland, Tacoma and Seattle. Present land values in the basin are from $2.50 to $50 an acre, averaging less than $15.

Such a development would take more than 25 years, officials here believe.

The Reclamation Bureau of the Interior Department is now considering what to recommend to congress in the face of recommendations by Oregon, Washington and Idaho interests for a large-scale immediate start.
